The beaver who built a dam and saved the forest inhabitants

Once upon a time, there was a beaver living in a forest. Although he was very small, he was brave and wise. The beaver wasn't afraid to overcome difficulties and tried to use his skills and knowledge not only for his own prosperity, but also for the prosperity of the forest.

One day, the beaver noticed a barely noticeable forest swamp that could pollute the nearby lake. He decided that he had to do something to prevent a disaster.

So the beaver came up with a plan to build a complex dam that would redirect water flows to avoid polluting the lake and give other animals access to fresh water.

The beaver decided to join forces with the forest inhabitants, and despite all the difficulties, they accomplished this idea together.
